DAVIS TO QUIT JOB AS ENFORCEMENT HEAD IN THIS STATE

Major Murdock, Former Head of Draft Body In This State, Succeeds Blairsville Minister.

SENATORS FAVOR

Washington, July 27.—Prohibition Director John T. Davis of Pennsylvania takes the "long, long trail" as a Federal official September 1.

He will be succeeded as prohibition director on that date by Major William G. Murdock of Milton, Pa. lawyer, state adjutant of the American Legion, former postmaster and during the war, head of draft machinery in the state.

Meanwhile, to get his hand in Major Murdock will accept immediate assignment as assistant director. When he steps into the directorship five weeks hence he plans to be thoroughly familiar with the functioning of the director's office and with the duties he will be expected to perform. As Assitant director, he will succeed George Hampton, who resigned April 10.

Approved by Senators

Announcement of the changes came simultaneously today from Prohibition Commissioner Haynes and Internal Revenue Commissioner Blair who have conferred together and with Senator Pepper and Director Davis several times recently on the Pennsylvania situation.

Major Murdock, it is understood goes in on Senator Pepper's recommendation. Naturally, he will have the indorsement of Senator Reed as well. In fact, there is reason to believe Senator Reed has been consulted on the appointment and not only has sanctioned but has urged it.

There have been repeated rumors that Davis would resign or had resigned, but these always have been denied both by Davis and his superiors. The formal confirmation once more emphasizes the relative worthlessness of official statements concerning the Pennsylvania prohibition situation.

Boss or Figurehead?

One question in connection with the appointment of Major Murdock remains unanswered officially. It is a ticklish one with officials here, pointing to the cause of a more or less constant friction between Director Davis and Haynes' group chiefs in Pennsylvania, which finally led Davis to resign. It is this: will Major Murdock have more authority than Director Davis in enforcement of the prohibition law, or will he, like Davis, be more or less of a figurehead, responsible only for the issuance of withdrawal permits, and frequently having these scrutinized by Haynes' own men in the state.

Commissioner Blair was silent on this subject today. One of his principal assistants said he had a "hunch" the present system, whereby the actual work of enforcement is in charge of group chiefs in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, would remain unchanged Commisisoner Blair, it was said, is anxious to avoid friction with Haynes and will not interfere unnecessarily in the latter's scheme of things.

"No Change" Indicated

At the prohibition unit partial verification of this view point came from Assistant Commissioner Jones. While there was no official statement concerning the status of Murdock's authority, Jones said he had heard of no plan to replace him and that so far as he was aware, the present arrangement would be continued with Group Chief Sams in Philadelphia, and Group Chief Simons in Pittsburgh directing the war on bootleggers as at present.

'Simons is detailed to Chicago, temporarily,' Jones said, "but will go back to Pittsburgh when he is thru there.

"So far as I know there will be no change in the Pennsylvania program.

"Director Davis will go out September 1 and Major Murdock will take his place, I presume, with the same authority. I've heard no sug-

NATURAL GROWTH FOR ALASKA BEST SAYS MR. HARDING

Aboard President Harding's train, eroute to Portal, Cal., July 28.—PresidentHarding's Alaskan trip has made of him as ardent a conservationist as any in the land.

He went to Alaska with the impression that perhaps the Government was keeping too tight a lock on the natural resources in the territory.

He returned convinced that the Government's conservation policy is wise and he is determined to continue it, and in the case of fisheries to extend it. At the same time the President is a conservationist he believes in development.

He told his Seattle audience late yesterday, in his speech reporting on the Alaskan survey that he sees a great future for Alaska, great development of her resources providing wise restrictions are kept in force until natural and economic laws bring about the development in the proper way. He disclaimed unequivocably against the policy of exploitation and looting. He also opposed forced Alaskan development by means of Government appropriation.

TWILIGHT LEAGUE SCHEDULE

The schedule of the Twilight League for the first half of the coming week is as follows:

Monday, July 30th, Reedsville vs. Hillsdale at Reedsville.

Tuesday, July 31st, Hillsdale vs. Kurtz team, at Reedsville.

Wednesday, August 1st, H. & W. Ref. Co., vs. Kurtz team at the park.

Manager Teats would like to hear from other local teams and there is no reason why the town could not provide at least three more teams for this League. What's the matter with our baseball talent? We had six teams in the League last year.

FEDERAL CONTROL OF COAL NEAR AS BARGAINING ENDS

Washington, D. C. July 28.—Government intervention loomed today in the coal crisis brought about by the breakdown of the wage agreement negotiations between leaders of anthracite operators and miners at Atlantic City.

The United States Coal Commission, under the Chairmanship of John Hayes Hammond, went into conference here today to study the serious situation following the collapse of the Atlantic City negotiations.

SWIMMER'S BROKEN NECK FIXED, SPINAL CORD TIED

New York, July 27.—Rudolph Koehler of Bayonne, N. J., today was reported recovering in a Staten Island hospital from a broken neck and severed spinal cord, suffered yesterday when he struck bottom while diving at a beach. He is the second person treated at the institution in a month for a broken neck with apprently good chances for recovery.

Surgeons removed parts of the fifth and sixth vertebrae, which had been fractured and joined the severed cord.

Koehler, who had been paralyzed from the neck down, immediately began to show signs of improvement. Physicians said his remarkable vitality made complete recovery possible.

MOTHER SELLS HER GIRL FOR $25.00

Waidelich claims it cost him $50 to get the child away from an East Orange woman. He also charges that his wife permitted their only son, George Waidelich, to be adopted

Bad Spill At Court House Corner Sends Firemen To The Hospital

Clearfield Fire Co., No. 1 had arranged to hold a festival at the Court House corner last evening and the rain spoiling the arrangements for the firemen. During the afternoon a committee consisting of Lysle Smith, Dan Zoltoskey and Willis Hile were engaged in gathering up the supplies for the festival and as they were using the company's hose wagon, with Bruce Smith driving.

They secured a lot of tables over at the park and were on their way to the hose house with them about 5 o'clock, and upon reaching the corner at the Diamond instead of driving around the pole as is customary Smith switched around the turn on Market street. Lysle Smith was standing on the running board at the rear, while Zoltoskey and Hile were on top of the tables. The unexpected turn into Market and the speed of the truck caused the load to skid off the truck, carrying with it all three of the young men. Lysle Smith landed on his head on the brick street and the tables with Zoltoskey and Hile on top of them tumbled off onto Smith.

He was picked up unconscious, loaded onto the hose wagon and hustled out to the Clearfield Hospital, where he regained consciousness a couple of hours later and was found to be not seriously hurt. Zoltoskey suffered a badly bruised hip, but Hile escaped without injury.

PLAYGROUND NEWS

Reedsville was finally rewarded for hard practice in the face of two trimmings when they won from West Side yesterday afternoon, 16-4. As rivalry grows and teams are put on their mettle, care will have to be taken that all players are regular playground attendants of not more than 15 years. Managers might easily be tempted to gather in some good men over the limit to help win or keep winning but this would not be a sporting thing to do.

Witmer Park is planning its hike for Wednesday, August 1st. All who wish to go are advised of a business meeting on the playground Tuesday morning at ten, when all details as to destination, transportation, lunch and so on will be settled. This is very important so any one on the fence had better decide to go—eleventh-hour arrivals may have difficulty in getting in on it. Mothers are noticed that unless a substitute appears in the interval that there will be no supervision on the Witmer Park grounds for that day—Wednesday. Notice will be given.

The West Side playground is to have its play party next Friday evening beginning at seven. Plans are being carefully made for the enjoyment of guests of all ages, announcement of which will be duly made. They had their second hike on Wednesday, going to Camp Goldenrod, the excursion proving quite as successful as the first. This was an ambitious distance to go, so the bathing pool and camp fire were more popular than ever. The East End playground is expecting to sally forth on their trip on Tuesday, announcements for which will be made Monday.

SPECIAL SESSION MAY BE OUTCOME OF ATTACK ON CODE

Harrisburg, Pa., July 28.—The success of Governor Pinchot's program of reform in the State Government hinged today on the outcome of preparations that are being made for mandamus suit in the local court to compel the State Treasurer to recognize the re-organization code.

While Governor Pinchot was at his palatial home in Milford working out his reorganization plan, it was learned State Treasurer Charles A. Snyder made preparations with his lawyer at his mansion in Pottsville for suit against the administrative code.

Provisions of the code, patterned after the Lowden Code of Illinois are questioned by the three elective officals independent of the Governor. State Treasurer Snyder has raised the issue that the instrument violates the Pennsylvania constitution. He is of the Governor would be necessary counter suit that will practically enjoin the administration forces and halt the machinery of the State Government.

A special session of the legislature it was said may have to be called to appropriate the money that Snyder refuses to pay under the code; in the event the code goes to Supreme Court, such action on the part of the Governor would be necessary. Governor Pinchot might even call a special session to remove the State Treasurer if he believes Snyder's action warrants such treatment.

Rev. and Mrs. Horace Lincoln Jacobs returned last evening from a vacation trip to the eastern part of the state. They were accompanied home by their son, who will spend some time with his parents at Trinity M. E. parsonage. The party luckily escaped serious injury in a little motor crash near Idora Park.

Rotarians Of Three Cities To Picnic Here On Thursday

Rotarians of Philipsburg, DuBois and Clearfield are all set for a big tri-club outing to be held at the Clearfield Driving Park next Thursday. The big time begins promptly at two o'clock in the afternoon and will continue until nine o'clock after which time the American Legion has the park for their regular Thursday dance.

The general committee has planned "something doing" every minute from two o'clock and post cards are going out to the members urging them to be on hand promptly at the starting time or they will miss part of the good time provided. Just what is going to happen at every stage of the game in the afternoon and ev[illegible] of course not made public as it is desired to spring a few surprises, but a few of the major attractions will be a reception at two o'clock, followed by dancing. At 3:30 the American Legion baseball team will play the DuBois Elk team and arrangements have been made whereby all Rotarians and their guests who wish to [illegible] so will be privileged to witness this game. At 5:30 dinner will be served during which a Rotary meeting [illegible] be conducted. Both the Philipsburg and the DuBois clubs have been requested to take a twenty minute period during the meeting for "showing off." Immediately following the dinner there will be an American Legion Band concert which will terminate what a hard working committee is satisfied will be a perfect day.

Dr. S. M. Free is chairman of the DuBois committee for the day, W. L. Burchfield is chairman of the Philipsburg committee and the following men are acting as a general committee on the local arrangements: G. A. Stewart, general chairman; A. D. Bigler, John Gearhart, John Woods, John Hess, Charles Hile, and Ward O. Wilson.

There are about 150 Rotarians in the three clubs. The first 21 members who have made reservations ordered ovr 70 plates and on this basis it is believed there will be several hundred in attendance.

WHOOPING COUGH IS ONLY WORRY [illegible] HEALTH OFFICE

There were five new cases of whooping cough reported to the Board of Health according to Secretary Gaulin's records, covering the seven days ending last night. During the same period five cases of diphtheria and one of scarlet fever were released from quarantine by the health authorities.

There are at present under quarantine a total of eleven cases of communicable disease and they are located as follows:

First Ward—Nothing doing.

Second Ward—Whooping cough, 3; Diphtheria, 2; Scarlet fever, 1.

Third Ward—Diphtheria 1.

Fourth Ward—Whooping cough, 1.

COMMUNITY DAILY VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL A SUCCESS

Yesterday saw the close of one of the most successful religious efforts carried on by the churches of the city. Begun three weeks ago with no previous experience, a Daily Vacation Bible School has proved a great success. Laymen from the Trinity, Eleventh Street, West Side Methodist and the Presbyterian churches organized this school, with the assistance of all the pastors. A curriculum was planned, embodying an intensive study of the life of Christ. Teachers of the highest skill were engaged. The school with almost 330 enrolled was divided into three divisions with two teachers for each division. The sessions have been held in the High School through the courtesy of the School Board. The different ministers presided at every session, with Rev. Gibson and Miss Grace Stewart in charge of the music. There was a wonderful spirit throughout the three weeks study. The teachers engaged were Henry Witherow, Misses Kline, Kramer, Faistick, Tuttle, and Miss Tobias. Miss Stewart had charge of the play at recess.

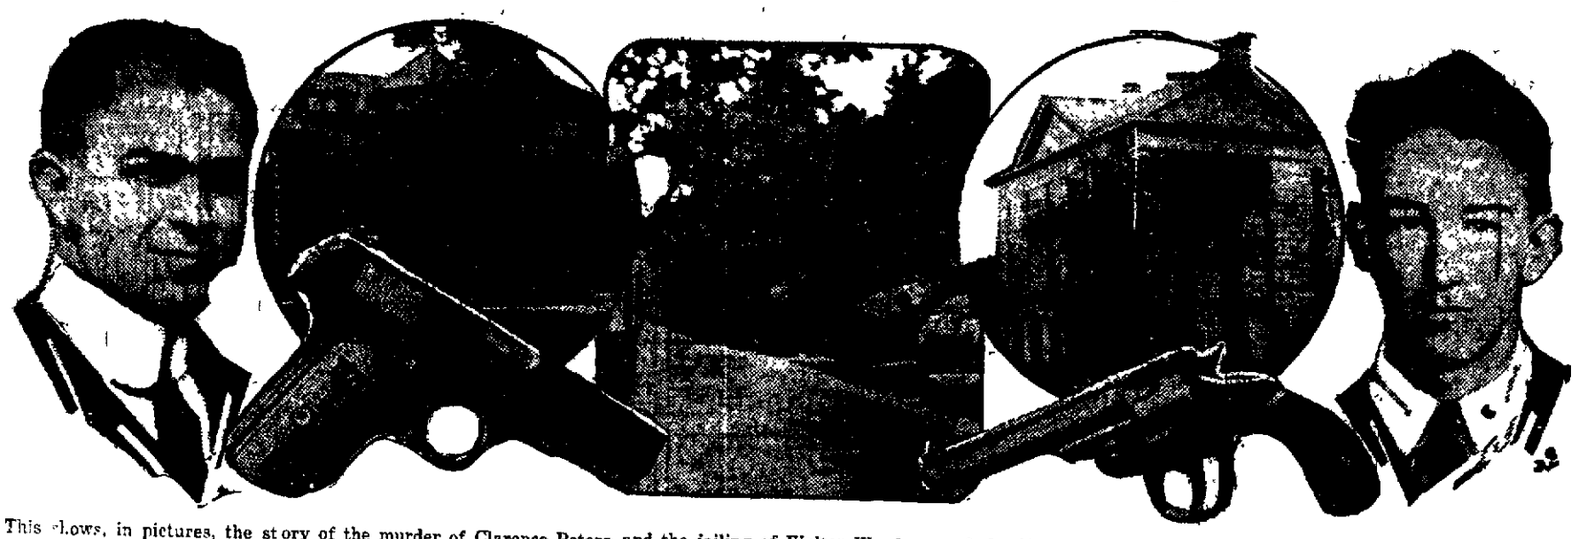
In spite of the many distractions of vacation time the attendance held up remarkably well. There was a fine spirit engendered between the different churches and pastors associated in the work of the school, and everything passed off with the finest spirit of harmony, and Christian fellowship.

The graduating exercises on Thursday night opened the eyes of all who attended to the vast amount of fine work accomplished in the three weeks work. Each division had its part well learned, and the passages recited, hymns sung, stories told, and the little play given by the first division scholars were all given in a wonderful way. When one considers that this program could have been repeated several times giving other songs and passages, the scope of the work is apparent. The daily study of the life of Jesus will be a lasting memory to these children. There have been impressions left which shall never be erased, and the passages and hymns committed to memory will be treasures as long as life lasts, for impressions made in youth remain always.

Friday was the climax of the school's sessions, a day of real play and pleasure. Automobiles and trucks took the school to Irwin Park above Curwensville, and the day was one long joy. With all the scores of children present, and with the majority in swimming there was not a single accident recorded. Two ladies from each of the churches prepared the menu, and cared for the ravenously hungry youngsters. The Workman's bakery prepared 75 pounds of hot delicious baked beans, and the cakes. The sandwiches and bananas were provided by the children. When it is said that twenty gallons of ice cream served in 700 cones, you have a conception of the appetite of the school. The swimming was the great delight and with Mr. Oberdick and Mr. Barnie watching every child, all went well and no one got beyond their depth or was in trouble. We are thankful that with so large a company there were no accidents.

And so the school is over, and every one speaks most highly of its work and the spirit of Christian love and fellowship which has been manifest in all the work of preparation and the real work of the daily sessions. We are planning already for a much larger and comprehensive work another year. To everyone who in any way helped to make this school a success we give our heartiest thanks, for the success achieved only could have been possible throrgh this cooperation.

STORY OF WARD CASE IN PICTURES



This shows, in pictures, the story of the murder of Clarence Peters and the jailing of Walter Ward, son of the New York millionaire baker. In May, 1922, Ward, (left) invited Peters (right) to the palatial Ward home at New Rochelle, N. Y., (left circle), officials charged. Some time later, the body of a man, later identified as that of Peters, was found, with bullet holes in it, on a lonely road not far away (indicated by cross, center). Ward was indicted, later released, and now has been reindicted on a murder charge and is held in Westchester County Jail (right circle.) Two guns will figure in the testimony. Police say Ward told them the one shown at left was his and the other was Peters.' Police say proof of ownership of these guns will be one of the big factors in deciding the case.

Engineering Authority Buys Marmon Of Local Firm After Five Years Of Exhaustive Research

Some people make up their minds about a motor car in five minutes.

Professor Stecker spent five years in arriving at his decision.

Professor H. E. [illegible] Stecker is professor of mathematics at Pennsylvania State College. He has held professorships at Cornell, Northwestern and Wisconsin.

There is an authentic list of men who have distinguished themselves in research known as "the first thousand men of science of North and South America." It includes sixty names in the mathematical sciences. Professor Stecker has represented the State of Pennsylvania on this list for a number of years.

In choosing an automobile Professor Stecker followed somewhat different lines than the ordinary layman.

He was in no hurry to make a purchase and felt that he could derive considerable benefit and pleasure from a research which would make him thoroughly conversant with all of the high-grade cars.

He devoted five years of study to the subject and made his comparisons on the basis of accurate, scientific information.

On the third floor of his home Professor Stecker has a library of automobile data. This includes the detailed technical data of practically all of the fine makes of cars, which he has analyzed and digested.

His research, however, went far beyond the blueprints. After thoroughly familiarizing himself with all of the technical data available it was his practice to study the car itself in the hands of owners and dealers.

He also visited several factories and judged for himself the standard of workmanship practiced by each manufacturer.

During the five-year period he was in Europe a number of times and studied the better makes of European cars and the methods of manufacturing first hand.

Professor Stecker's findings a probably the most exhaustive ever compiled by a motor car prospect. It would be impractical to reprint even a portion of them but comments, however, contain a digest of the whole matter.

"Previous to the 11 series of the Marmon 34," he says, "I felt there was nothing built in America to compete with the fineness of hand fittings which is practiced in Europe. The high-grade European automobile is a tool room job all the way through. The item of skilled labor is not as serious a consideration as it is in this country.

"I have concluded, however, that the Nordyke & Marmon Company has succeeded in devising means of obtaining this fineness of fittings for automobile parts on a production basis as has no other manufacturer.

"The excellence of workmanship in the Marmon, in comparison with other high-grade automobiles, has made its greatest impression on me.

"The second greatest consideration was the light weight of the Marmon, combined with maximum rigidity, as compared with competitive makes.

"While the Marmon has long wheelbase, maximum carrying capacity and is in every way prepared to supply the most luxurious requirements of motoring, it is not overburdened with dead weight, and its perfect balance is decidedly impressive.

"In purchasing a car for use in Pennsylvania it was important to have an engine with sufficient power to provide good hill-climbing ability and I don't believe the Marmon could be excelled in this regard."

Professor Stecker's choice was a Marmon, seven-passenger convertible phaeton, which he purchased through the Clearfield Auto Supply Company, of Clearfield, Pa.

There is nothing theoretical about his analysis. Although he made a hobby out of it, it was his own money he was investing, and he had a real personal interest in the facts.

What every motor car investor would like to do if he had the time and technical training, Professor Stecker has done for him.

Upon the judgment of such expert the judgment of the layman may safely rest.

The average person buys a Marmon because he likes the way it handles on the road, because he [illegible] its economical maintenance in the hands of owners—its [illegible] mileage, with so little repair and adjustment.

The scientist is not content with these facts. He searches for fundamentals. He wants to know WHY these things are true. And it is only by such comparative study of fundamentals that the true difference between various makes of cars can be conclusively determined.

If he goes into the construction of the car at all the average prospect is impressed in a general way by some of the most important features. But here, ready-made for him, is the exhaustive research of a scientist who has studied all and compared [illegible] found in the Marmon the greater number of qualities which are fundamental to motor car satisfaction.

Few people who enjoy tapioca pudding realize that they are eating a product of the poisonous cassava root. In its natural state this root is extremely bitter and harmful because of the hydrocyanic acid that it contains, but when heated it becomes palatable and its poisonous qualities are readily dissipated.—Popular Science Monthly.

Gender of Ships.

It is a well-known fact that ships are almost invariably referred to as being of the feminine gender. Now and then a ship is called "it," but with rare exceptions the reference is "she" or "her." Just why this is so it would be difficult to tell—the custom is so ancient.

TWO INCHES OF RAINFALL

The first real rain storm in months struck Clearfield yesterday afternoon and continued a steady downpour almost all night long.

According to the record kept for the State Water Supply Commission by H. P. Bridge of this place, a fraction more than two inches of rain fell during the storm.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

Mining operations generally consume about 75 per cent of all the explosives used in the United States, declares W. W. Adams, mine accident statistician, of the Department of the Interior, in Technical Paper, 340, just issued by the bureau of mines. Coal mining consumes between 82 and 88 per cent of all black powder, from 77 to 93 per cent of permissible explosives used in this country, and from 8 to 10 per cent of other high explosives. Other mining operations (excluding coal mines and oil and gas wells) normally consume 30 to 50 per cent of all high explosives other than permissibles, 2 to 18 per cent of permissible explosives, and 2 to 4 per cent of black powder.

Tests are being made by the Department of the Interior at the Pittsburgh experiment station of the bureau of mines to determine the temperature at which various explosives will detonate or flash. A series of tests has just been completed to show the effects of crystal size and method of purification on the strength and sensitiveness of T. N. T. Apparently both factors have some effect on the explosive properties of T. N. T., but the variation is within narrow limits.

Mine fatalities due to explosives during the past 11 years have caused 2.6 to 5.9 per cent of all fatalities at bituminous mines, 4.1 to 8.9 per cent at anthracite mines, 9.3 to 14.2 per cent at metal mines, and 13.6 to 26.6 per cent at quarries, according to figures prepared by W. W. Adams. No data are available regarding non-fatal accidents at coal mines, but record are available regarding non-fatal accidents at coal mines, but the record shows that only 1.1 to 2 per cent of all injuries at metal mines and from 1.7 to 6.3 per cent of those at quarries have been due to the use of explosives. For every fatality due to explosives since 1911, there have been 7.5 non-fatal injuries at metal mines and 8 non-fatal injuries at quarries

A study of fatalities to underground employes at coal mines since 1911 (omitting 1919) shows that 37 to 61 per cent of the fatalities occurred at the anthracite mines in Pennsylvania which have produced from 14 to 18 per cent of the coal tonnage of the United States. The anthracite mines normally consume from 52 to 67 per cent of all dynamite and other high explosives used at the coal mines in this country, 21 to 31 per cent of all permissible explosives, and 11 to 17 per cent of all black blasting powder In 1919 the number of fatalities at anthracite mines was abnormally high (149, or 72 per cent), due to a powder explosion in Baltimore tunnel, No. 2, at Wilkes-Barre, on June 5, which caused the death of 92 men.

The Pinchot administration can regulate or interfere with the booze business all they want to, under the terms of the recently enacted enforcement bill, but when they come down to an attempt to regulate the water of the state, such as was done by Dr Martin, head of the Health Department, the nature or the elements step in and refuse to be regulated. On Thursday Dr. Smartone issued a yard of don'ts for water users throughout the state, as per the divine right of Gifford and his hirelings. Yesterday the elements took the matter out of his hands and the long existing drouth was broken with the greatest rain in months.

"The American girl by her present day moral laxity is fast destroying the ideals that heretofore have made her the idol of American men," said Dr. F. H. Knubel, president of the United Lutheran Church in America, before sailing to attend the Lutheran World Convention at Eisenach, Saxony, from Aug. 19 to Aug. 26.

"Our girls should mend their ways," he went on, "because men despise them as they are. It is scandalous the way young women of today smoke cigars, drink cocktails and conduct themselves otherwise. The United States at this time is very immoral, but I hope women soon will improve their code of ethics. They should realize that men detest them for flouting indecency.

"Of course, the women are no worse than their men companions, but they seem more lax because of the contrast with the reserve of women of past generations. Neither is the United States worse than other nations in this respect, and I believe much sinfulness of women is due to an exaggeration of their own true development—the new freedom and right of suffrage."

If the figures published by Mr. Hoover's Department of Commerce are correct, and no one can question them, there has been no sugar shortage to account for the excessive prices to consumers. They have been mercilessly victimized and nothing has been done for their relief.

As a matter of fact, instead of decreasing, the official figures show that the total imports of of sugar into the United States for the year just ended were about 20,000,000 pounds than during the preceding year. Sugar imports from Cuba, which sent more than 90 per cent of the total imports, increased this year 10,000,000 pounds over last year. So the pretext of a shortage as justifying the high prices of the last six months is plainly fraudulent.

WOODLAND

Miss Henrietta Mauley, of Grampian, is visiting this week at the home of her sister, Mrs. Wm. Edmunds.

Miss Mildred Palmer returned yesterday to her home in New Washington after a week's visit with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas Palmer, of this place and Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Stevens and Miss Salome Davis of Clearfield motored to Williamsport on Sunday where they spent the day with friends.

Misses Ethel and Genevieve Mitchell went to Lock Haven on Wednesday where they will visit friends.

Cole Pfeil's class of boys of the M. E. Sunday School picnicked at Mineral Springs Park on Tuesday and in spite of the occasional showers had a fine time.

Mrs. Hyatt and daughter Josephine and Kathryn of Springfield, Mass., and Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Kanarr, of York, Pa., were guests this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Palmer.

The Vulcan Trading Co. store force picnicked on Thursday afternoon at Welder Camp on the Penfield Road. They had a fine time and visited the nursery and the Game Warden's zoo while there.

Mrs. Thos Mulin, of Mineral Springs and Mrs. Howard Lansberry and two children spent Thursday with friends in Blue Ball.

Miss Pearl Woolridges class of girls of the M. E. S S. were delightfully entertained at the home of Miss Margaret Baird on Tuesday evening.

Burton Duffey, who was a patient in the Clearfield Hospital, has returned to his home here and is somewhat improved in health Paul Dugan too, is home from the hospital and is hobbling about on crutches.

Mrs. George Cole of Donora, has been spending a six week's visit with relatives in this vicinity. Mr. Cole also was here on Sunday.

The question of street lights for our town is the principal topic among the citizens at present.

Marble.

Marble is a product of marine sediments and volcanic fires. It is laid down on the sea bottom as shell heaps, which gradually turn into chalk. If the strata should be deeply buried in the rocks, the intense heat of the earth causes chemical elements to rearrange themselves so that they crystallize into marble. Various impurities in the chalk give the marble its various hues.

Ingenuity.

One of the most exciting occupations is that in which newsboys engage when a coin drops through a grating in the sidewalk. A long stick is found first. Someone provides a wad of chewing gum which is stuck on the end of the stick. Then some of the boys guides the gum to the coin and draws it forth, while the rest of the gang coaches and criticizes the change.

5-Passenger Sedan
F. O. B. Factory

Unmatched at its Price

Reliability Nothing left for time to divulge. Every car road- and track-tested before leaving factory.

Economy Owners' average: 16 to 20 miles per gallon of gasoline. Extremely sparing in use of oil. Easy on tires.

Comfort Springs of finest vanadium 100 inches long. Easy chair upholstery. Seats unusually wide. Ample leg room. No cramping.

Power Full 75 horsepower with no sacrifice of economy. Positively no vibration. Nothing to compare with it at anything like the price.

Speed From 2 to more than 70 m. p. h. on high. Top speed maintained indefinitely without strain or hazard. Instantaneous get-away.

Hills The power of the Stutz Six seems unlimited. The famous Uniontown (Pa.) hill was its testing ground. The ease with which it ascends is amazing.

Traffic Lightning pickup; giant though gentle brakes; ideal wheelbase for facile parking and short turning radius make traffic driving easy.

Touring Covers more distance, with less fatigue than any car you ever tried. Travels anywhere the road leads with absolute safety.

Business Always ready to go, with a world of endurance. Amazingly independent of service attention. Requires no coddling.

Recreation Peace-of-mind! Confidence! The Right-of-Way always! That's the fun of driving a Stutz Six.

Prestige Stutz supremacy is everywhere conceded. No car has greater distinction or confers firmer prestige. It is a car of dominant class.

Quality Not a single compromise in engineering, materials or workmanship is countenanced. There are bigger cars but none finer.

Beauty Low and just a bit rakish, the Stutz Six is lithe and smart and piquantly captivating. It looks as well as it acts!

Ease Gearshift, brakes, clutch and steering wheel were never so obedient to your touch or a mighty car so responsive to your every whim.

Value America's Lowest-Priced Quality Six—the most prudently priced class car. The more exacting your comparisons, the more positive the proof.

Make Your Own Test—Drive It Yourself!

Forty-six hundred teachers were graduated from teacher training institutions in Pennsylvania during the year which has just closed, according to data gathered by the Department of Public Instruction.

Figures from the 47 accredited colleges in the state show that the total number of graduates was more than 7,000, the largest in the history of the state. Among the graduates were E G. Gushee, 63 years old of Philadelphia, and Mrs. S. Shoemaker Farley age 57, of Swarthmore, who received the Bachelor of Science Degree from Temple University and State College respectively.

Of the 7,000 graduates, 1980 took educational courses and will enter the teaching profession.

The normal schools, too, established high water mark in the number of graduates, 2618 having received diplomas in June. These figures include the largest number of male graduates since the establishment of normal schools in 1859. Cheyney Normal School, organized two years ago graduated 21.

Record classes also prevailed in the field of secondary education, 31,000 having finished in the first class high schools of the state. This large number is attributed to the influence of the junior high schools. These have had a phenomenal development in Pennsylvania the past few years and have had the effect of holding students in high school until the completion of the course.

It is estimated that thirty per cent of the high school graduates will enter higher institutions of learning in the fall.

Political Paragraphs

ODELL HAUSER'S COLUMN

What you really need is a war correspondent to do justice to a summary of this week's politics in Pennsylvania. For the well-known dogs have been let loose. That little fracas between State Treasurer Snyder and the Pinchot administration whose beginnings have been traced in these paragraphs from time to time fulfilled the hint that was given of it last week, namely, that it was likely to get worth talking about this week.

And it has been doing so. Not that it has as yet burst into the full fragrance of luxuriant bloom for which it is ultimately destined, but that it has done pretty well considering everything, and has passed from the realm of talk to the realm of action. Up to this week the hostility consisted mostly of neatly typewritten statements. But now they have rolled up their sleeves and taken the battle-axe in hand.

The rival leaders with their staffs have been domiciled respectively in Camp Milford and Camp Potisville. Commander Pinchot has for the week withdrawn into the hills of Pike County and surrounded himself on all sides with Colonel Dr. King, chief-of-staff, and Colonel Woodruff, intelligence officer—not to mention the excellent commissary department for which Grey Towers is noted. At last notice they were busy drawing plan after plan to repel the invasion.

Commander Snyder, leader of the insurgent forces, has established himself in the fastnesses of Schuylkill in the neighborhood of Pottsville, though he has made several guerilla raids into the capitol at Harrisburg. His aides consist principally of a white carnation and several lawyers.

Each side is shelling the other's position when opportunity offers and in the meantime sending out reconnoitering parties heavily armed. The battle wages fast and furiously. Ever and anon, over the din of the barrage, may be heard the dull and sickening thud of falling bodies as more state employes are dropped off the state payroll.

For such as drop, the State Treasurer is a sort of first aid and comforter, since his argument is that they are just as well off because those that are still on are not going to be paid their salaries if he can help it.

As early as Tuesday of this week State Treasurer Snyder fired his Big Bertha in the Battle of the Code. On that day he officially refused to draw pay checks for the salaries of employes connected with the budget and the geological survey bureaus. In the beginning it had looked as though the genial Charles was going to take the position that no employe under the administrative code would get his emolument.

But he finally concentrated his fire on the two bureaus mentioned on the theory that they offered him plenty of ground on which to make the legal test of the code he seems determined to make and he might as well let the others get their pay, because undoubtedly lots of them were good fellows and in their hearts thought as little of the code as he does.

But on the two bureaus mentioned he stood firm as the Rock of Gibraltar. Attorney-General Woodruff, on behalf of the administration, addressed a letter to Mr. Snyder expressing the conviction the salaries ought be paid and hoping Mr. Snyder would see his duty and do it. Then he had to leave for general headquarters in Milford without coming into personal contact with the fiscal potentate from Pottsville.

Seekers for information turned to Mr. Snyder, who remained on the field of battle. Yes, he had received such a letter and had answered it. He didn't believe he should give out the text of the correspondence, but it had all been very official and very dignified.

What would he do now? Nothing. He had not changed his position. He had refused to pay the salaries of those humble ministrants at the alter of public service and as far as he was concerned, that was all there was to it. The next move was up to the administration. He was preparing to go on a vacation.

That was the report of proceedings Attorney-General Woodruff carried to general headquarters at Milford, where the Governor and Secretary of the Commonwealth Clyde L. King were discussing the state of the commonwealth and how many employes should be divorced from its payroll.

It now remains to be seen, of course, how, when and where the administration will reply to the embattled State Treasurer. He has refused to pay the salaries of two of its bureaus on the ground that the code provisions are illegal in some respect he is careful not to mention. It is up to the administration either to make him pay the salaries or give up the bureaus.

The most obvious remedy lies in a mandamus action. The administration has seemed somewhat reluctant to begin such an action. Attorney-General Woodruff, who would be in charge of the proceedings, has not even yet said flatly that he would start, though he may say so now at any time.

With such a legal action begun, it would then devolve upon the State Treasurer to show the court why he should not be compelled to pay the salaries in question. To do so he would have to make public the reasons why the code is invalid, in his opinion. He now guards these reasons very carefully.

It is quite possible that out of the mandamus proceedings would grow litigation which would affect the whole of the state government as it is outlined in the new code. If Mr. Snyder's position is sustained by the court and the validity of the code successfully questioned through the Supreme Court, where it would probably be carried, it will be seen we are in for a serious piece of business.

Relays of lawyers are said to be engaged in Harrisburg examining into the question. The State Treasurer will, of course, make as sweeping a case of it as he can and if it is possible to question the whole code instead of merely the bureaus he has selected to hold out salaries for, he will not be sorry.

And one thing is fairly certain. If the courts should sustain Mr. Snyder's position—and there is no saying now that they will not—thus invalidating the pet measure of the Pinchot administration, nothing is more likely than that the Governor will call a special session of the General Assembly to remedy the defects and set the code on its feet again. Nice weather we're having, isn't it?

WATER SHIPMENT OF ORE WILL BE BIG BENEFIT TO FORD

Detroit, Mich., July 28.—Big lake freighters are coming up the River Rouge and delivering cargoes of iron ore at the plant of the Ford Motor Company, bringing to fulfillment another step of progress long planned by Henry Ford.

When the steamer Cletus Schneider steamed out of the Rouge into the Detroit River at 12.25 o'clock Thursday afternoon July 12th, it had completed the first delivery of iron ore by water direct to the docks of the Ford Motor Company's River Rouge plant.

Carrying a cargo of 5,300 tons of ore, the steamer enroute from Two Harbors arrived at the mouth of the Rouge at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening with a number of company officials aboard, escorted by the tug Samuel J. Lark. The incoming trip was made in an hour and thirty minutes.

The second steamer came in Thursday night and from now on until the end of the season lake freighters will come laden with iron ore at the rate of three a week, delivering an average, it is expected, of 27,000 tons of ore weekly. When navigation closes in the fall the giant bins at the River Rouge plant will be filled to the limit, according to present plans and there will be sufficient ore on hand to meet all manufacturing requirements of the company during the closed season. Thus ends railroad transportation of ore, thereby effecting a great economy in transportation costs with resultant manufacturing economy.

The project of deepening and widening the River Rouge was begun in 1917, and forms one of the most interesting navigation ventures in the country's history. It varied from 77 to 109 feet in width and was far too shallow for navigation.

Property rights on either side of the entire distance of the three miles were purchased by Mr. Ford for sufficient distance to permit a width of 300 feet and these were dedicated to the government under the direction of which all dredging operations have been carried out.

By 1918 work had progressed sufficiently to permit the launching of the Eagle boats during the war and re the stream is finally opened to navigation by lake freighters. The River Rouge now has a 300 foot surface breadth, a 200-foot bottom with an average depth of 22 feet, which will accommodate the largest of lake steamers, none of which have a greater draft than 19 feet, 6 inches, the limit permitted by the government.

Only a little more dredging is to be done and this will be finished by the government, it is expected, by August 1st. Completion of the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton bridge will come within a month at which time, it is expected, the government will accept it and the river will be officially opened. In the meantime, however, traffic will proceed.

The Ford Motor Company has completed a docking slip 2,614 feet long and 250 feet wide and in addition has constructed a giant turning basin approximately 1,200 by 1,200 feet which when fully completed, will be turned over to the government for acceptance.

The completion of the River Rouge project with its short cut canal gives to the City of Detroit six miles of new water front.—(Adv.)

Applies to Home, Too.

It is a good rule to endeavor hour by hour and week by week to learn to work hard. It is not well to take four minutes to do what you can accomplish in three. Learn to work intensively.—Charles W. Eliot.

Progress Editorial For Women

A HARD BEGINNING
By FLODENCI DAVIES

Sometimes it looks as if the human race was positively stubborn in its inconsistency. Shakespere knew what he was talking about when he hailed consistency as a rare jewel.

Mary Pickford, writing about her early life, proves that she is no exception.

Life wasn't easy in the early days for the Pickford family. On one memorable occasion it took all of the family's combined savings to buy a trunk. Even the luxury of a school room education was denied to Mary with the exception of a few scattered terms in Canada. Box car figures and letters and sign boards glimpsed from the train window furnished her primer.

And yet this is what she says about it all:—

"When young girls who want to go into the pictures or on the stage come to me for advice, I always urge education, as it is not a heavy burden to carry, but I am glad that I was self-taught. I'd hate to see my little niece, or anyone I was close to, go through the same thing, but I am rather happy now that my early years were not easy. Without the struggle of that time I am certain that I could not today, at my age run the picture company that I do. I would be less tolerant and have less understanding and sympathy."

Mary wouldn't be without that early struggle, if she could. She admits that she wouldn't be as big a woman as she is today, if she hadn't had it. But she wouldn't want her niece to go through that kind of a fight. No sirree! She would want to give her niece or any one close to her, every soft, lovely thing that life afforded—and then expect her to make good anyhow.

Isn't that just about as consistent as every mother and father in the land?

"I had a hard time when I was a boy. That hard time was the making of me. But I wouldn't want my boy or girl to have as hard a time as I had." That's what the fathers say.

Yet, no father would carry that statement to its logical conclusion—that he didn't want that boy or girl to make as much of a success of life as he had made. On the contrary, every parent wants his child to succeed just a little better than he has succeeded.

Life today is softer than it used to be. Are we, then, to set about it to make conditions hard on purpose? Must we make a boy, whose mother cooks with gas, chop wood, just for the sake of chopping it, or a girl walk three miles to school just because her mother had to do it?

Nonsense! That would be artificial Life is hard enough without thinking up hardships for children or grown-ups. All that we need is a willingness to let some of the youngsters do a little real work and carry some actual responsibilities.

We don't have to recreate the old conditions or manufacture hardships to do that. There is plenty of responsibility about modern life, but we want our young folks to have a better time than we did so we don't let them find it out.

LESSON FOR JULY 29

MATTHEW, THE PUBLICAN

LESSON TEXT — Matthew 9:9-13; Luke 5:27-32.

GOLDEN TEXT—"I came not to call the righteous but sinners to repentance."—Matthew 5:32.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—Mark 2: 13-22

PRIMARY TOPIC—Matthew Invites Jesus to His Home.

JUNIOR TOPIC—What Jesus Did for Matthew.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Matthew Overcomes a Handicap.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Matthew, a Study of Conversion.

I. Who Matthew Was.

Of Matthew little is known, even his birth place is concealed. Our first sight of him is seated at the toll booth collecting taxes. The tax gatherer was hated by the loyal Jews because he collected taxes for the alien government under whose yoke they were galling. This hate was the more bitter because of the extortion usually practiced by those in rule. From the meager accounts we find that Matthew was:

1. A Man of Decision. We do not know whether he had ever seen or heard of Jesus before this time, but we note that he at once arose and followed Jesus. Without doubt, there were many things to concern him. It was no little task to break off from his business which apparently was very lucrative.

2. He Was a Humble Man. In chapter 10, verse 3, the order in which he gives his own name and the fact that he designates himself a "publican" would show that he did not overestimate himself.

3. He Possessed Force of Character. This is shown in the fact that he gave a feast and invited his friends in to see and hear his Lord.

He had two names, Levi, which means "attached" or "joined," and Matthew, which means "gift of Jehovah." Most likely Matthew was the name assumed after his conversion.

II. Matthew's Call or Conversion (Math. 9:9).

1. As Jesus Passed By, He "Saw a Man." He saw the possibilities which were in Matthew. He saw through the hated profession of a tax gatherer the shining possibilities of his manhood and apostleship. He saw in him the man fit to perceive and portray the Messiahship of the Redeemer. The divine grace was revealed in this call. Jesus sees what is in man regardless of name or profession.

2. Matthew's Response (v. 9). He acted with decision and promptness; he left his business behind him. When Jesus said, "Follow Me," Matthew perceived that greater than man had spoken to him. May we yield ourselves unto Him and render such simple obedience that our actions may be but the echoes of the divine voice in commanding. Two things in Matthew's compliance prove the genuineness of his conversion:

1. "He Left All" (Luke 5:28). Real conversion always results in the forsaking of all that is contrary to Jesus, such as illegitimate business, wicked associates and worldly pleasures, etc.

2. "Followed Jesus." Following Jesus means the commitment of one's life to Him for full salvation, abandonment of the will to Him to do whatsoever He wills, and a willingness to suffer, and even die, if need be, for Him.

III. Matthew Made a Great Feast (Luke 5:29-32). This feast was made in honor of his newly-found Savior. His conversion was so real that he wanted his friends to become acquainted with his Savior. He was not ashamed to confess his Lord before them. He showed real tact in making a supper. Men will come to a feast much more readily than they will to a sermon. A great company of sinners came, who doubtless had been Matthew's companions in sin. He now desired them to become his brothers in Christ. The Scribes and Pharisees were astonished that Jesus would appear in company with such a motley crowd of disreputable persons. They were too cowardly to speak to Jesus but they came to the disciples. Jesus championed their cause and battled His adversaries. His reasoning was unanswerable. A physician's place is among the sick. Only those who are diseased should come to the doctor's house. Since spiritual matters are of more importance than physical, Jesus was more than justified in being in the center of those who were morally sick that He might heal them of their maladies. He came to call sinners to repentance.

Our Conscience.

If conscience smite thee once it is an admonition; if twice, it is a condemnation. Repose is as necessary in conversation as in a picture.—Hazlitt.

Intelligence and Charity.

The brightest blaze of intelligence is of incalculably less value than the smallest spark of charity.—W. Nevins.

The Ground of Joy.

We can do nothing well without joy, and a good conscience which is the ground of joy.—Sibbes.

Opportunity a Sycophant.

Opportunity is like everything else, always ready to call on a man who is already successful.—Lond. Answers.

Curwensville's Own Column

Miss Frances Schoor leaves today for an extended visit to several pleasure resorts in Canada. Miss Schoor will return to Braddock again this winter and teach her third term of school in that growing young city.

The bankrupt sale stock of William Hile was disposed of to the highest bidders yesterday afternoon.

New concrete walls are being erected over at the Penna. Hide and Leather companys plant, the building to replace the old hide house which was burned to the ground several months ago.

Harry Leathers ,one of the roller men at Summit tannery had thumb on the left hand caught under a roller yesterday morning crushing the end of that member almost to a pulp.

J. M. McKinley, general superintendent of the Crescent Refractories brick plant went to Buffalo Thursday evening on business connected with his position.

Jack Irvin purchased several acres of ground some weeks ago from Harry Riddle and is now putting up a comfortable bungalow on the same. The purchase lies near the Thos. Humphreys farm and a short distance from the Bloom bridge.

Chas. Edwards of Buffalo, spent a portion of the week in Curwensville, visiting with his brother, E. A. Edwards, South Filbert street.

Today E. R. Edwards and wife and Edward Henry and wife start on a motor trip to Wilkesbarre and other points along the route traveled. That city is the home town of Mr. Edwards.

Chas. Schrote who has been located in Detroit, Mich., for some months back is home on a vacation visit with his parents.

A sort of a surprise party was held at the home of Mrs. Robert McClure yesterday afternoon. A number of neighbors and friends assembled to congratulate her on the passing of another birthday anniversary.

We have been requestqed to have published in the Curwensville letter the names of those who participated in the party held out at the "Seldom-In" club house on Thursday evening: Bessie Clark, Helen Kephart, Elizabeth King, Alice Wall, Jessie Pifer, Roberta McDonald, Mary Alice Thompson, John Bowers, Jake and Leonard Kantar, Robert Wolf, Chas. Norris, Winfield Sykes. Bruce Norris, Martin Ardary, John Wright, Jas Strickland, Hugh Norris, Geo. Wrigley, "Butter" Ammerman. RUBIES FOR JULY RINGS

If you are going to make a gift of a ring or a brooch or any bit of personal jewelry which you wish to have symbolic of the birth month of the recipient, the ruby's the thing for July.

And we have here some particularly nice stones right now. And if we haven't just what you want we will secure it for you in the shortest possible time.

Many folks for whom we have gotten such stones tell us that they are rightly pleased with their purchases and we know that we can please you, too.

BUY A BOOK FOR SUNDAY READING

Whether your taste turns to fiction—it may be of the great outdoors or the most sensational of society stories—or whether your taste is for the heavier reading along technical lines, you will find that we have a book here that will make your Sunday pass very pleasantly.

We have most of the new copyright releases—books that sold for much higher prices when the copyright was on—selling at a fraction of their former prices.

There are many books on technical subjects which of course sell for a slightly higher price but they are works of the best men in the various lines and are well worth the time to read them for the man or woman who is interested in some special profession.

Persistent Bees.

For 20 years a swarm of bees have occupied the back of the school clock at Michelclever, England, and no attempt at removing them has been successful, states a resident of that town. The swarm had been thought destroyed some years ago and the entrance the bees had made was cemented up, but each year they have returned, and they even bored a new hole through the cement.

POLITICAL PARAGRAPHS

These manouvers between the State Treasurer and the administration have nothing to do directly with the dismissals of ate employes that are now going on, though, of course, they e all part of the same condition.

The dismissals are being made partly to accommodate cerin bureaus and departments to reduced appropriations made the last legislative session and partly as a voluntary move the part of the Pinchot administration by way of redeeming e Governor's ante-election pledge of economy in government.

A batch of 113 dismissals was announced at Harrisburg Wednesday of this week. These had come from Milford, here the Governor is working with Dr. King on his scheme re-organization. They are by no means the first dismissals at have been made, nor are they likely to be the last.

They will, of course, constitute another sore spot in the ate government, a new issue between Mr. Pinchot and the olitical organizations. He is quite aware of that and quite illing to carry the burden.

It is too early yet to have any opinion about them. Friend the dismissed employes will say in many instances, of course at the dismissals were unjustified. At the same time ther ill be no question of public opinion favoring the Governor', ove if it can be demonstrated there was a superfluity of em oyes entailing unnecessary expense upon the state.

Particularly will this be so if it can also be demonstrate at the dismissals were regulated solely on the basis of ef iency and that political preferment was not involved, in othe ords that it was not done on a basis of rewarding friend id punishing enemies.

Another point to be kept in mind is that, contrary to ge ally accepted belief, the salaries paid to state employes whe ything approximating proper conditions prevails is not ajor expense of state government. Compared to other thing it might be still to be almost negligible. However, whether that is true or not, the undoubted fact is that this is a bad season of the year in which to be a state employe. However, those dismissed may have the consolation of knowing that in nine cases out of ten it will lead to them getting into private business and making something out of themselves. They may not see that right now but they will later.

His Definition.

"Why are they called pyramids, pa?" asked George, who was looking at a picture of those wonders of Egypt. "They are called pyramids, my son," replied the father, without hesitation, "because, you see, they appear until the general desolation of the desert."

The Century Plant.

The report that a century plant blooms only once in a hundred years is probably due to the impatience of some of its admirers. In some parts of South America where it grows wild it blooms once in eight years, but when it has been transplanted into green houses under artificial conditions its blooming date is much prolonged.

Birds in the Night.

The owls are the only nocturnal creatures that can be classed as birds of prey. Other birds of prey are the hawks, eagles, falcons, buzzards, vultures, kites, condors, and the secretary bird. Owls are divided into two families, the barn owls and the true owls. The barn owls are the screech owl, owl of the desert and screech owl.

BETTER KIDDIES WHEN FED OUR MILK

Any kiddy that is being fed our milk regularly, is a better kiddy mentally and physically. The undernourished child, even tho given what looks to be the food for him or her, is peevish and fretful. Possibly it is not getting the proper nourishment—the kind it would be getting if our milk were the main article of diet.

When the kiddies get our milk they are getting all the goodness that Nature put into the milk and there is usually a marked change for the better right away.

Let the kiddies have plenty of our milk and they will thrive.

DAVIS TO QUIT JOB AS ENFORCEMENT HEAD IN THIS STATE

Major Murdock, Former Head of Draft Body In This State, Succeeds Blairsville Minister.

SENATORS FAVOR

Washington, July 27.—Prohibition Director John T. Davis of Pennsylvania takes the "long, long trail" as a Federal official September 1.

He will be succeeded as prohibition director on that date by Major William G. Murdock of Milton, Pa. lawyer, state adjutant of the American Legion, former postmaster and during the war, head of draft machinery in the state.

Meanwhile, to get his hand in Major Murdock will accept immediate assignment as assistant director. When he steps into the directorship five weeks hence he plans to be thoroughly familiar with the functioning of the director's office and with the duties he will be expected to perform. As Assitant director, he will succeed George Hampton, who resigned April 10.

Approved by Senators

Announcement of the changes came simultaneously today from Prohibition Commissioner Haynes and Internal Revenue Commissioner Blair who have conferred together and with Senator Pepper and Director Davis several times recently on the Pennsylvania situation.

Major Murdock, it is understood goes in on Senator Pepper's recommendation. Naturally, he will have the indorsement of Senator Reed as well. In fact, there is reason to believe Senator Reed has been consulted on the appointment and not only has sanctioned but has urged it.

There have been repeated rumors that Davis would resign or had resigned, but these always have been denied both by Davis and his superiors. The formal confirmation once more emphasizes the relative worthlessness of official statements concerning the Pennsylvania prohibition situation.

Boss or Figurehead?

One question in connection with the appointment of Major Murdock remains unanswered officially. It is a ticklish one with officials here, pointing to the cause of a more or less constant friction between Director Davis and Haynes' group chiefs in Pennsylvania, which finally led Davis to resign. It is this: will Major Murdock have more authority than Director Davis in enforcement of the prohibition law, or will he, like Davis, be more or less of a figurehead, responsible only for the issuance of withdrawal permits, and frequently having these scrutinized by Haynes' own men in the state.

Commissioner Blair was silent on this subject today. One of his principal assistants said he had a "hunch" the present system, whereby the actual work of enforcement is in charge of group chiefs in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, would remain unchanged Commisisoner Blair, it was said, is anxious to avoid friction with Haynes and will not interfere unnecessarily in the latter's scheme of things.

"No Change" Indicated

At the prohibition unit no trial verification of this view point came from Assistant Commissioner Jones. While there was no official statement concerning the status of Murdock's authority, Jones said he had heard of no plan to replace him and that so far as he was aware, the present arrangement would be continued with Group Chief Sams in Philadelphia, and Group Chief Simons in Pittsburgh directing the war on bootleggers as at present.

"Simons is detailed to Chicago, for example" Jones said, "but will go back to Pittsburgh when he is thru there.

"So far as I know there will be no change in the Pennsylvania program.

"Director Davis will go out September 1 and Major Murdock will take his place, I presume, with the same authority. I've heard no sug-

NATURAL GROWTH FOR ALASKA BEST SAYS MR. HARDING

Aboard President Harding's train, eroute to Portal, Cal., July 28.—PresidentHarding's Alaskan trip has made of him as ardent a conservationist as any in the land.

He went to Alaska with the impression that perhaps the Government was keeping too tight a lock on the natural resources in the territory.

He returned convinced that the Government's conservation policy is wise and he is determined to continue it, and in the case of fisheries to extend it. At the same time the President is a conservationist he believes in development.

He told his Seattle audience late yesterday, in his speech reporting on the Alaskan survey that he sees a great future for Alaska, great development of her resources providing wise restrictions are kept in force until natural and economic laws bring about the development in the proper way. He disclaimed unequivocably against the policy of exploitation and looting. He also opposed forced Alaskan development by means of Government appropriation.

TWILIGHT LEAGUE SCHEDULE

The schedule of the Twilight League for the first half of the coming week is as follows:

Monday, July 30th, Reedsville vs. Hillsdale at Reedsville.

Tuesday, July 31st, Hillsdale vs. Kurtz team, at Reedsville.

Wednesday, August 1st, H. & W. Ref. Co., vs. Kurtz team at the park.

Manager Teats would like to hear from other local teams and there is no reason why the town could not provide at least three more teams for this League. What's the matter with our baseball talent? We had six teams in the League last year.

FEDERAL CONTROL OF COAL NEAR AS BARGAINING ENDS

Washington, D. C. July 28.—Government intervention loomed today in the coal crisis brought about by the breakdown of the wage agreement negotiations between leaders of anthracite operators and miners at Atlantic City.

The United States Coal Commission, under the Chairmanship of John Hayes Hammond, went into conference here today to study the serious situation following the collapse of the Atlantic City negotiations.

SWIMMER'S BROKEN NECK FIXED, SPINAL CORD TIED

New York, July 27.—Rudolph Koehler of Bayonne, N. J., today was reported recovering in a Staten Island hospital from a broken neck and severed spinal cord, suffered yesterday when he struck bottom while diving at a beach. He is the second person treated at the institution in a month for a broken neck with apprently good chances for recovery.

Surgeons removed parts of the fifth and sixth vertebrae, which had been fractured and joined the severed cord.

Koehler, who had been paralyzed from the neck down, immediately began to show signs of improvement. Physicians said his remarkable vitality made complete recovery possible.

Bad Spill At Court House Corner Sends Firemen To The Hospital

Clearfield Fire Co., No. 1 had arranged to hold a festival at the Court House corner last evening and the rain spoiling the arrangements for the firemen. During the afternoon a committee consisting of Lysle Smith, Dan Zoltoskey and Willis Hile were engaged in gathering up the supplies for the festival and to this end they were using the company's hose wagon, with Bruce Smith driving.

They secured a lot of tables over at the park and were on their way to the hose house with them about 5 o'clock, and upon reaching the corner at the Diamond instead of driving around the pole as is customary Smith switched around the tower into Market street. Lysle Smith was standing on the running board at the rear, while Zoltoskey and Hile were on top of the tables. The unexpected turn into Market and the speed of the truck caused the load to skid off the truck, carrying with it all three of the young men. Lysle Smith landed on his head on the brick street and the tables with Zoltoskey and Hile on top of them tumbled off onto Smith.

He was picked up unconscious, loaded onto the hose wagon and hustled out to the Clearfield Hospital, where he regained consciousness a couple of hours later and was found to be not seriously hurt. Zoltosky suffered a badly bruised hip, but Hile escaped without injury.

PLAYGROUND NEWS

Reedsville was finally rewarded for hard practice in the face of two trimmings when they won from West Side yesterday afternoon, 16-4. As rivalry grows and teams are put on their mettle, care will have to be taken that all players are regular playground attendants of not more than 15 years. Managers might easily be tempted to gather in some good men over the limit to help win or keep winning but this would not be a sporting thing to do.

Witmer Park is planning its hike for Wednesday, August 1st. All who wish to go are advised of a business meeting on the playground Tuesday morning at ten, when all details as to destination, transportation, lunch and so on will be settled. This is very important so any one on the fence had better decide to go—eleventh-hour arrivals may have difficulty in getting in on it. Mothers are noticed that unless a substitute appears in the interval that there will be no supervision on the Witmer Park grounds for that day—Wednesday. Notice will be given.

The West Side playground is to have its play party next Friday evening beginning at seven. Plans are being carefully made for the enjoyment of guests of all ages, announcement of which will be duly made. They had their second hike on Wednesday, going to Camp Goldenrod, the excursion proving quite as successful as the first. This was an ambitious distance to go, so the bathing pool and camp fire were more popular than ever. The East End playground is expecting to sally forth on their trip on Tuesday, announcements for which will be made Monday.

SPECIAL SESSION MAY BE OUTCOME OF ATTACK ON CODE

Harrisburg, Pa., July 28.—The success of Governor Pinchot's program of reform in the State Government hinged today on the outcome of preparations that are being made for mandamus suit in the local court to compel the State Treasurer to recognize the re-organization code.

While Governor Pinchot was at his palatial home in Milford working out his reorganization plan, it was learned State Treasurer Charles A. Snyder made preparations with his lawyer at his mansion in Pottsville for suit against the administrative code.

Provisions of the code, patterned after the Lowden Code of Illinois are questioned by the three elective officals independent of the Governor. State Treasurer Snyder has raised the issue that the instrument violates the Pennsylvania constitution. He is of the Governor would be necessary counter suit that will practically enjoin the administration forces and halt the machinery of the State Government.

A special session of the legislature it was said may have to be called to appropriate the money that Snyder refuses to pay under the code; in the event the code goes to Supreme Court, such action on the part of the Governor would be necessary. Governor Pinchot might even call a special session to remove the State Treasurer if he believes Snyder's action warrants such treatment.

Rev. and Mrs. Horace Lincoln Jacobs returned last evening from a vacation trip to the eastern part of the state. They were accompanied home by their son, who will spend some time with his parents at Trinity M. E. parsonage. The party luckily escaped serious injury in a little motor crash near Idora Park.

Rotarians Of Three Cities To Picnic Here On Thursday

Rotarians of Philipsburg, DuBois and Clearfield are all set for a big tri-club outing to be held at the Clearfield Driving Park next Thursday. The big time begins promptly at two o'clock in the afternoon and will continue until nine o'clock after which time the American Legion has the park for their regular Thursday dance.

The general committee has planned "something doing" every minute from two o'clock and post cards are going out to the members urging them to be on hand promptly at the starting time or they will miss part of the good time provided. Just what is going to happen at every stage of the game in the afternoon and ev[illegible] of course not made public as it is desired to spring a few surprises, but a few of the major attractions will be a reception at two o'clock, followed by dancing. At 3:30 the American Legion baseball team will play the DuBois Elk team and arrangements have been made whereby all Rotarians and their guests who wish to [illegible] so will be privileged to witness this game. At 5:30 dinner will be served during which a Rotary meeting [illegible] be conducted. Both the Philipsburg and the DuBois clubs have been requested to take a twenty minute period during the meeting for "showing off." Immediately following the dinner there will be an American Legion Band concert which will terminate what a hard working committee is satisfied will be a perfect day.

Dr. S. M. Free is chairman of the DuBois committee for the day, W. L. Burchfield is chairman of the Philipsburg committee and the following men are acting as a general committee on the local arrangements: G. A. Stewart, general chairman; A. D. Bigler, John Gearhart, John Woods, John Hess, Charles Hile, and Ward O. Wilson.

There are about 150 Rotarians in the three clubs. The first 21 members who have made reservations ordered ovr 70 plates and on this basis it is believed there will be several hundred in attendance.

WHOOPING COUGH IS ONLY WORRY [illegible] HEALTH OFFICE

There were five new cases of whooping cough reported to the Board of Health according to Secretary Gaulin's records, covering the seven days ending last night. During the same period five cases of diphtheria and one of scarlet fever were released from quarantine by the health authorities.

There are at present under quarantine a total of eleven cases of communicable disease and they are located as follows:

First Ward—Nothing doing.

Second Ward—Whooping cough, 3; Diphtheria, 2; Scarlet fever, 1.

Third Ward—Diphtheria 1.

Fourth Ward—Whooping cough, 5.

COMMUNITY DAILY VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL A SUCCESS

Yesterday saw the close of one of the most successful religious efforts carried on by the churches of the city. Begun three weeks ago with no previous experience, a Daily Vacation Bible School has proved a great success. Laymen from the Trinity, Eleventh Street, West Side Methodist and the Presbyterian churches organized this school, with the assistance of all the pastors. A curriculum was planned, embodying an intensive study of the life of Christ. Teachers of the highest skill were engaged. The school with almost 330 enrolled was divided into three divisions with two teachers for each division. The sessions have been held in the High School through the courtesy of the School Board. Three different ministers presided at every session, with Rev. Gibson and Miss Grace Stewart in charge of the music. There was a wonderful spirit throughout the three weeks study. The teachers engaged were Henry Witherow, Misses Kline, Kramer, Faistick, Tuttle, and Miss Tobias. Miss Stewart had charge of the play at recess.

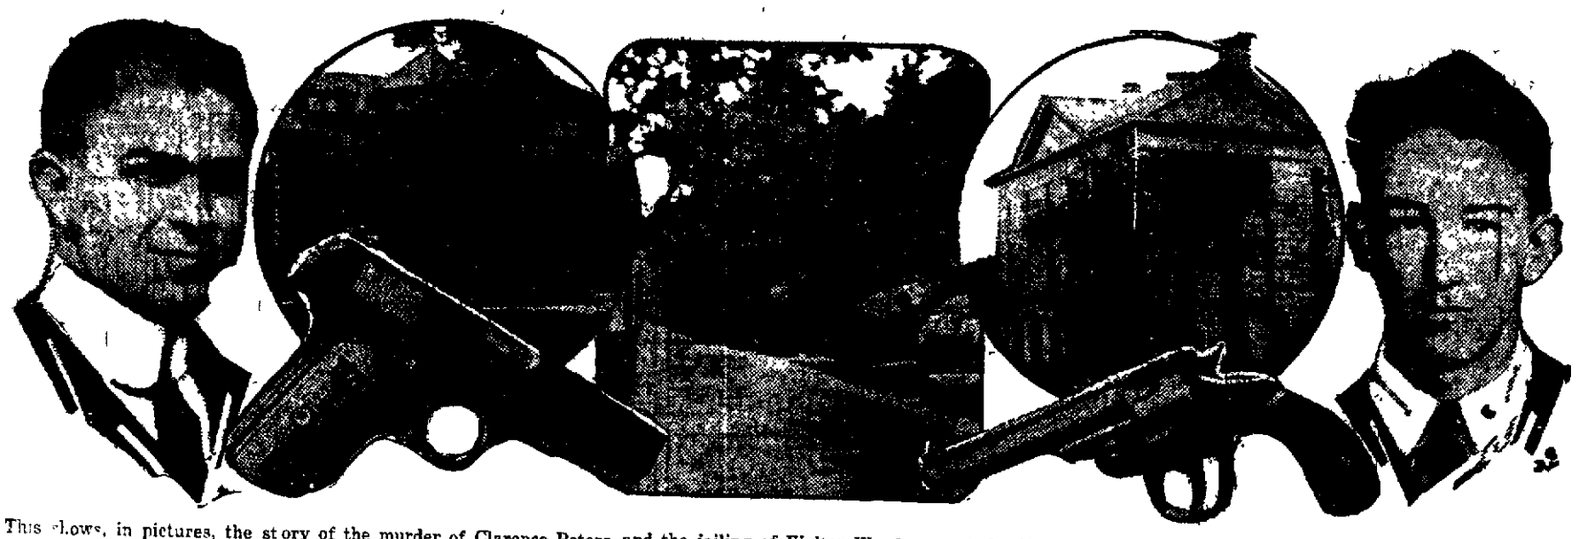
In spite of the many distractions of vacation time the attendance held up remarkably well. There was a fine spirit engendered between the different churches and pastors associated in the work of the school, and everything passed off with the finest spirit of harmony, and Christian fellowship.

The graduating exercises on Thursday night opened the eyes of all who attended to the vast amount of fine work accomplished in the three weeks work. Each division had its part well learned, and the passages recited, hymns sung, stories told, and the little play given by the first division scholars were all given in a wonderful way. When one considers that this program could have been repeated several times giving other songs and passages, the scope of the work is apparent. The daily study of the life of Josus will be a lasting memory to these children. There have been impressions left which shall never be erased, and the passages and hymns committed to memory will be treasures as long as life lasts, for impressions made in youth remain always.

Friday was the climax of the school's sessions, a day of real play and pleasure. Automobiles and trucks took the school to Irwin Park above Curwensville, and the day was one long joy. With all the scores of children present, and with the majority in swimming there was not a single accident recorded. Two ladies from each of the churches prepared the menu, and cared for the ravenously hungry youngsters. The Workman's bakery prepared 75 pounds of hot delicious baked beans, and the cakes. The sandwiches and bananas were provided by the children. When it is said that twenty gallons of ice cream served in 700 cones, you have a conception of the appetite of the school. The swimming was the great delight and with Mr. Oberdick and Mr. Barnie watching every child, all went well and no one got beyond their depth or was in trouble. We are thankful that with so large a company there were no accidents.

And so the school is over, and every one speaks most highly of its work and the spirit of Christian love and fellowship which has been manifest in all the work of preparation and the real work of the daily sessions. We are planning already for a much larger and comprehensive work another year. To everyone who in any way helped to make this school a success we give our heartiest thanks, for the success achieved only could have been possible throrgh this cooperation.

STORY OF WARD CASE IN PICTURES



This shows, in pictures, the story of the murder of Clarence Peters and the jailing of Walter Ward, son of the New York millionaire baker. In May, 1922, Ward, (left) invited Peters (right) to the palatial Ward home at New Rochelle, N. Y., (left circle), officials charged. Some time later, the body of a man, later identified as that of Peters, was found, with bullet holes in it, on a lonely road not far away (indicated by cross, center). Ward was indicted, later released ,and now has been reindicted on a murder charge and is held in Westchester County Jail (right circle.) Two guns will figure in the testimony. Police say Ward told them the one shown at left was his and the other was Peters.' Police say proof of ownership of these guns will be one of the big factors in deciding the case.

Engineering Authority Buys Marmon Of Local Firm After Five Years Of Exhaustive Research

Some people make up their minds about a motor car in five minutes.

Professor Stecker spent five years in arriving at his decision.

Professor H. E. [illegible] Stecker is professor of mathematics at Pennsylvania State College. He has held professorships at Cornell, Northwestern and Wisconsin.

There is an authentic list of men who have distinguished themselves in research known as "the first thousand men of science of North and South America." It includes sixty names in the mathematical sciences. Professor Stecker has represented the State of Pennsylvania on this list for a number of years.

In choosing an automobile Professor Stecker followed somewhat different lines than the ordinary layman.

He was in no hurry to make a purchase and felt that he could derive considerable benefit and pleasure from a research which would make him thoroughly conversant with all of the high-grade cars.

He devoted five years of study to the subject and made his comparisons on the basis of accurate, scientific information.

On the third floor of his home Professor Stecker has a library of automobile data. This includes the detailed technical data of practically all of the fine makes of cars, which he has analyzed and digested.

His research, however, went far beyond the blueprints. After thoroughly familiarizing himself with all of the technical data available it was his practice to study the car itself in the hands of owners and dealers.

He also visited several factories and judged for himself the standard of workmanship practiced by each manufacturer.

During the five-year period he was in Europe a number of times and studied the better makes of European cars and the methods of manufacturing first hand.

Professor Stecker's findings a probably the most exhaustive ever compiled by a motor car prospect. It would be impractical to reprint even a portion of them but comments, however, contain a digest of the whole matter.

"Previous to the Ii series of the Marmon 34," he says, "I felt there was nothing built in America to compete with the fineness of hand fittings which is practiced in Europe. The high-grade European automobile is a tool room job all the way through. The item of skilled labor is not as serious a consideration as it is in this country.

"I have concluded, however, that the Nordyke & Marmon Company has succeeded in devising means of obtaining this fineness of fittings for automobile parts on a production basis as has no other manufacturer.

"The excellence of workmanship in the Marmon, in comparison with other high-grade automobiles, has made its greatest impression on me.

"The second greatest consideration was the light weight of the Marmon, combined with maximum rigidity, as compared with competitive makes.

"While the Marmon has long wheelbase, maximum carrying capacity and is in every way prepared to supply the most luxurious requirements of motoring, it is not overburdened with dead weight, and its perfect balance is decidedly impressive.

"In purchasing a car for use in Pennsylvania it was important to have an engine with sufficient power to provide good hill-climbing ability and I don't believe the Marmon could be excelled in this regard."

Professor Stecker's choice was a Marmon, seven-passenger convertible phaeton, which he purchased through the Clearfield Auto Supply Company, of Clearfield, Pa.

There is nothing theoretical about his analysis. Although he made a hobby out of it, it was his own money he was investing, and he had a real personal interest in the facts.

What every motor car investor would like to do if he had the time and technical training, Professor Stecker has done for him.

Upon the judgment of such expert the judgment of the layman may safely rest.

The average person buys a Marmon because he likes the way it handles on the road, because he [illegible] its economical maintenance in the hands of owners—its [illegible] mileage, with so little repair and adjustment.

The scientist is not content with these facts. He searches for fundamentals. He wants to know WHY these things are true. And it is only by such comparative study of fundamentals that the true difference between various makes of cars can be conclusively determined.

If he goes into the construction of the car at all the average prospect is impressed in a general way by some of the most important features. But here, ready-made for him, is the exhaustive research of a scientist who has studied all and compared [illegible] found in the Marmon the greater number of qualities which are fundamental to motor car satisfaction.

Tapioca From Poison Root.

Few people who enjoy tapioca pudding realize that they are eating a product of the poisonous cassava root. In its natural state this root is extremely bitter and harmful because of the hydrocyanic acid that it contains, but when heated it becomes palatable and its poisonous qualities are readily dissipated.—Popular Science Monthly.

Gender of Ships.

It is a well-known fact that ships are almost invariably referred to as being of the feminine gender. Now and then a ship is called "it," but with rare exceptions the reference is "she" or "her." Just why this is so it would be difficult to tell—the custom is so ancient.

TWO INCHES OF RAINFALL

The first real rain storm in months struck Clearfield yesterday afternoon and continued a steady downpour almost all night long.

According to the record kept for the State Water Supply Commission by H. P. Bridge of this place, a fraction more than two inches of rain fell during the storm.

Terrific Pace Proves Oakland's Stamina and Endurance

Traveling at the record-breaking speed of 67.7 miles per hour—an Oakland Six again demonstrated its wonderful stamina and endurance. Such a gruelling pace is more than a test of speed! It proves that the Oakland chassis is so sturdily built that it can withstand tremendous speed continuously for nearly eight hours—without injurious effects—without strain—without breaking.

Coupled with Oakland's recent winning, for the second consecutive time, of the Yosemite Valley Run—the nation's leading Economy Contest—this newest feat offers added evidence that Oakland is building "the finest light six".

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

Mining operations generally consume about 75 per cent of all the explosives used in the United States, declares W. W. Adams, mine accident statistician, of the Department of the Interior, in Technical Paper, 340, just issued by the bureau of mines. Coal mining consumes between 82 and 88 per cent of all black powder, from 77 to 93 per cent of permissible explosives used in this country, and from 8 to 10 per cent of other high explosives. Other mining operations (excluding coal mines and oil and gas wells) normally consume 30 to 50 per cent of all high explosives other than permissibles, 2 to 18 per cent of permissible explosives, and 2 to 4 per cent of black powder.

Tests are being made by the Department of the Interior at the Pittsburgh experiment station of the bureau of mines to determine the temperature at which various explosives will detonate or flash. A series of tests has just been completed to show the effects of crystal size and method of purification on the strength and sensitiveness of T. N. T. Apparently both factors have some effect on the explosive properties of T. N. T., but the variation is within narrow limits.

Mine fatalities due to explosives during the past 11 years have caused 2.6 to 5.9 per cent of all fatalities at bituminous mines, 4.1 to 8.9 per cent at anthracite mines, 9.3 to 14.2 per cent at metal mines, and 13.6 to 26.6 per cent at quarries, according to figures prepared by W. W. Adams. No data are available regarding non-fatal accidents at coal mines, but record are available regarding non-fatal accidents at coal mines, but the record shows that only 1.1 to 2 per cent of all injuries at metal mines and from 1.7 to 6.3 per cent of those at quarries have been due to the use of explosives. For every fatality due to explosives since 1911, there have been 7.5 non-fatal injuries at metal mines and 8 non-fatal injuries at quarries

A study of fatalities to underground employes at coal mines since 1911 (omitting 1919) shows that 37 to 61 per cent of the fatalities occurred at the anthracite mines in Pennsylvania which have produced from 14 to 18 per cent of the coal tonnage of the United States. The anthracite mines normally consume from 52 to 67 per cent of all dynamite and other high explosives used at the coal mines in this country, 21 to 31 per cent of all permissible explosives, and 11 to 17 per cent of all black blasting powder In 1919 the number of fatalities at anthracite mines was abnormally high (149, or 72 per cent), due to a powder explosion in Baltimore tunnel, No. 2, at Wilkes-Barre, on June 5, which caused the death of 92 men.

The Pinchot administration can regulate or interfere with the booze business all they want to, under the terms of the recently enacted enforcement bill, but when they come down to an attempt to regulate the water of the state, such as was done by Dr Martin, head of the Health Department, the nature or the elements step in and refuse to be regulated. On Thursday Dr. Smartone issued a yard of don'ts for water users throughout the state, as per the divine right of Gifford and his hirelings. Yesterday the elements took the matter out of his hands and the long existing drouth was broken with the greatest rain in months.

"The American girl by her present day moral laxity is fast destroying the ideals that heretofore have made her the idol of American men," said Dr. F. H. Knubel, president of the United Lutheran Church in America, before sailing to attend the Lutheran World Convention at Eisenach, Saxony, from Aug. 19 to Aug. 26.

"Our girls should mend their ways," he went on, "because men despise them as they are. It is scandalous the way young women of today smoke cigars, drink cocktails and conduct themselves otherwise. The United States at this time is very immoral, but I hope women soon will improve their code of ethics. They should realize that men detest them for flouting indecency.

"Of course, the women are no worse than their men companions, but they seem more lax because of the contrast with the reserve of women of past generations. Neither is the United States worse than other nations in this respect, and I believe much sinfulness of women is due to an exaggeration of their own true development—the new freedom and right of suffrage."

If the figures published by Mr. Hoover's Department of Commerce are correct, and no one can question them, there has been no sugar shortage to account for the excessive prices to consumers. They have been mercilessly victimized and nothing has been done for their relief.

As a matter of fact, instead of decreasing, the official figures show that the total imports of of sugar into the United States for the year just ended were about 20,000,000 pounds than during the preceding year. Sugar imports from Cuba, which sent more than 90 per cent of the total imports, increased this year 10,000,000 pounds over last year. So the pretext of a shortage as justifying the high prices of the last six months is plainly fraudulent.

Miss Henrietta Mauley, of Grampian, is visiting this week at the home of her sister, Mrs. Wm. Edmunds.

Miss Mildred Palmer returned yesterday to her home in New Washington after a week's visit with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas Palmer, of this place and Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Stevens and Miss Salome Davis of Clearfield motored to Williamsport on Sunday where they spent the day with friends.

Misses Ethel and Genevieve Mitchell went to Lock Haven on Wednesday where they will visit friends.

Cub Pack's class of boys of the M. E. Sunday School picnicked at Mineral Springs Park on Tuesday and in spite of the occasional showers had a fine time.

Mrs. Hyatt and daughter Josephine and Kathryn of Springfield, Mass., and Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Kanarr, of York, Pa., were guests this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Palmer.

The Vulcan Trading Co. store force picnicked on Thursday afternoon at Welder Camp on the Penfield Road. They had a fine time and visited the nursery and the Game Warden's zoo while there.

Mrs. Thos Mulin, of Mineral Springs and Mrs. Howard Lansberry and two children spent Thursday with friends in Blue Ball.

Miss Pearl Woolridges class of girls of the M. E. S S. were delightfully entertained at the home of Miss Margaret Baird on Tuesday evening.

Burton Duffey, who was a patient in the Clearfield Hospital, has returned to his home here and is somewhat improved in health Paul Dugan too, is home from the hospital and is hobbling about on crutches.

Mrs. George Cole of Donora, has been spending a six week's visit with relatives in this vicinity. Mr. Cole also was here on Sunday.

The question of street lights for our town is the principal topic among the citizens at present.

Marble.

Marble is a product of marine sediments and volcanic fires. It is laid down on the sea bottom as shell heaps, which gradually turn into chalk. If the strata should be deeply buried in the rocks, the intense heat of the earth causes chemical elements to rearrange themselves so that they crystallize into marble. Various impurities in the chalk give the marble its various hues.

Ingenuity.

One of the most exciting occupations is that in which newsboys engage when a coin drops through a grating in the sidewalk. A long stick is found first. Someone provides a wad of chewing gum which is stuck on the end of the stick. Then some of the boys guides the gum to the coin and draws it forth, while the rest of the gang coaches and criticizes the change.

Reliability Nothing left for time to divulge. Every car road- and track-tested before leaving factory.

Economy Owners' average: 16 to 20 miles per gallon of gasoline. Extremely sparing in use of oil. Easy on tires.

Comfort Springs of finest vanadium 100 inches long. Easy chair upholstery. Seats unusually wide. Ample leg room. No cramping.

Power Full 75 horsepower with no sacrifice of economy. Positively no vibration. Nothing to compare with it at anything like the price.

Speed From 2 to more than 70 m. p. h. on high. Top speed maintained indefinitely without strain or hazard. Instantaneous get-away.

Hills The power of the Stutz Six seems unlimited. The famous Uniontown (Pa.) hill was its testing ground. The ease with which it ascends is amazing.

Traffic Lightning pickup; giant though gentle brakes; ideal wheelbase for facile parking and short turning radius make traffic driving easy.

Touring Covers more distance, with less fatigue than any car you ever tried. Travels anywhere the road leads with absolute safety.

Business Always ready to go, with a world of endurance. Amazingly independent of service attention. Requires no coddling.

Recreation Peace-of-mind! Confidence! The Right-of-Way always! That's the fun of driving a Stutz Six.

Prestige Stutz supremacy is everywhere conceded. No car has greater distinction or confers firmer prestige. It is a car of dominant class.

Quality Not a single compromise in engineering, materials or workmanship is countenanced. There are bigger cars but none finer.

Beauty Low and just a bit rakish, the Stutz Six is lithe and smart and piquantly captivating. It looks as well as it acts!

Ease Gearshift, brakes, clutch and steering wheel were never so obedient to your touch or a mighty car so responsive to your every whim.

Value America's Lowest-Priced Quality Six—the most prudently priced class car. The more exacting your comparisons, the more positive the proof.

Forty-six hundred teachers were graduated from teacher training institutions in Pennsylvania during the year which has just closed, according to data gathered by the Department of Public Instruction.

Figures from the 47 accredited colleges in the state show that the total number of graduates was more than 7,000, the largest in the history of the state. Among the graduates were E G. Gushee, 63 years old of Philadelphia, and Mrs. S. Shoemaker Farley age 57, of Swarthmore, who received the Bachelor of Science Degree from Temple University and State College respectively.

Of the 7,000 graduates, 1980 took educational courses and will enter the teaching profession.

The normal schools, too, established high water mark in the number of graduates, 2618 having received diplomas in June. These figures include the largest number of male graduates since the establishment of normal schools in 1859. Cheyney Normal School, organized two years ago graduated 21.

Record classes also prevailed in the field of secondary education, 31,000 having finished in the first class high schools of the state. This large number is attributed to the influence of the junior high schools. These have had a phenomenal development in Pennsylvania the past few years and have had the effect of holding students in high school until the completion of the course.

It is estimated that thirty per cent of the high school graduates will enter higher institutions of learning in the fall.

Political Paragraphs

ODELL HAUSER'S COLUMN

What you really need is a war correspondent to do justice to a summary of this week's politics in Pennsylvania. For the well-known dogs have been let loose. That little fracas between State Treasurer Snyder and the Pinchot administration whose beginnings have been traced in these paragraphs from time to time fulfilled the hint that was given of it last week, namely, that it was likely to get worth talking about this week.

And it has been doing so. Not that it has as yet burst into the full fragrance of luxuriant bloom for which it is ultimately destined, but that it has done pretty well considering everything, and has passed from the realm of talk to the realm of action. Up to this week the hostility consisted mostly of neatly typewritten statements. But now they have rolled up their sleeves and taken the battle-axe in hand.

The rival leaders with their staffs have been domiciled respectively in Camp Milford and Camp Potisville. Commander Pinchot has for the week withdrawn into the hills of Pike County and surrounded himself on all sides with Colonel Dr. King, chief-of-staff, and Colonel Woodruff, intelligence officer—not to mention the excellent commissary department for which Grey Towers is noted. At last notice they were busy drawing plan after plan to repel the invasion.

Commander Snyder, leader of the insurgent forces, has established himself in the fastnesses of Schuylkill in the neighborhood of Pottsville, though he has made several guerilla raids into the capitol at Harrisburg. His aides consist principally of a white carnation and several lawyers.

Each side is shelling the other's position when opportunity offers and in the meantime sending out reconnoitering parties heavily armed. The battle wages fast and furiously. Ever and anon, over the din of the barrage, may be heard the dull and sickening thud of falling bodies as more state employes are dropped off the state payroll.

For such as drop, the State Treasurer is a sort of first aid and comforter, since his argument is that they are just as well off because those that are still on are not going to be paid their salaries if he can help it.

* * *

As early as Tuesday of this week State Treasurer Snyder fired his Big Bertha in the Battle of the Code. On that day he officially refused to draw pay checks for the salaries of employes connected with the budget and the geological survey bureaus. In the beginning it had looked as though the genial Charles was going to take the position that no employe under the administrative code would get his emolument.

But he finally concentrated his fire on the two bureaus mentioned on the theory that they offered him plenty of ground on which to make the legal test of the code he seems determined to make and he might as well let the others get their pay, because undoubtedly lots of them were good fellows and in their hearts thought as little of the code as he does.

But on the two bureaus mentioned he stood firm as the Rock of Gibraltar. Attorney-General Woodruff, on behalf of the administration, addressed a letter to Mr. Snyder expressing the conviction the salaries ought be paid and hoping Mr. Snyder would see his duty and do it. Then he had to leave for general headquarters in Milford without coming into personal contact with the fiscal potentate from Pottsville.

Seekers for information turned to Mr. Snyder, who remained on the field of battle. Yes, he had received such a letter and had answered it. He didn't believe he should give out the text of the correspondence, but it had all been very official and very dignified.

What would he do now? Nothing. He had not changed his position. He had refused to pay the salaries of those humble ministrants at the alter of public service and as far as he was concerned, that was all there was to it. The next move was up to the administration. He was preparing to go on a vacation.

* * *

That was the report of proceedings Attorney-General Woodruff carried to general headquarters at Milford, where the Governor and Secretary of the Commonwealth Clyde L. King were discussing the state of the commonwealth and how many employes should be divorced from its payroll.

It now remains to be seen, of course, how, when and where the administration will reply to the embattled State Treasurer. He has refused to pay the salaries of two of its bureaus on the ground that the code provisions are illegal in some respect he is careful not to mention. It is up to the administration either to make him pay the salaries or give up the bureaus.

The most obvious remedy lies in a mandamus action. The administration has seemed somewhat reluctant to begin such an action. Attorney-General Woodruff, who would be in charge of the proceedings, has not even yet said flatly that he would start, though he may say so now at any time.

With such a legal action begun, it would then devolve upon the State Treasurer to show the court why he should not be compelled to pay the salaries in question. To do so he would have to make public the reasons why the code is invalid, in his opinion. He now guards these reasons very carefully.

It is quite possible that out of the mandamus proceedings would grow litigation which would affect the whole of the state government as it is outlined in the new code. If Mr. Snyder's position is sustained by the court and the validity of the code successfully questioned through the Supreme Court, where it would probably be carried, it will be seen we are in for a serious piece of business.

Relays of lawyers are said to be engaged in Harrisburg examining into the question. The State Treasurer will, of course, make as sweeping a case of it as he can and if it is possible to question the whole code instead of merely the bureaus he has selected to hold out salaries for, he will not be sorry.

And one thing is fairly certain. If the courts should sustain Mr. Snyder's position—and there is no saying now that they will not—thus invalidating the pet measure of the Pinchot administration, nothing is more likely than that the Governor will call a special session of the General Assembly to remedy the defects and set the code on its feet again. Nice weather we're having, isn't it?

WATER SHIPMENT OF ORE WILL BE BIG BENEFIT TO FORD

Detroit, Mich., July 28.—Big lake freighters are coming up the River Rouge and delivering cargoes of iron ore at the plant of the Ford Motor Company, bringing to fulfillment another step of progress long planned by Henry Ford.

When the steamer Cletus Schneider steamed out of the Rouge into the Detroit River at 12.25 o'clock Thursday afternoon July 12th, it had completed the first delivery of iron ore by water direct to the docks of the Ford Motor Company's River Rouge plant.

Carrying a cargo of 5,300 tons of ore, the steamer enroute from Two Harbors arrived at the mouth of the Rouge at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening with a number of company officials aboard, escorted by the tug Samuel J. Lark. The incoming trip was made in an hour and thirty minutes.

The second steamer came in Thursday night and from now on until the end of the season lake freighters will come laden with iron ore at the rate of three a week, delivering an average, it is expected, of 27,000 tons of ore weekly. When navigation closes in the fall the giant bins at the River Rouge plant will be filled to the limit, according to present plans and there will be sufficient ore on hand to meet all manufacturing requirements of the company during the closed season. Thus ends railroad transportation of ore, thereby effecting a great economy in transportation costs with resultant manufacturing economy.

The project of deepening and widening the River Rouge was begun in 1917, and forms one of the most interesting navigation ventures in the country's history. It varied from 77 to 109 feet in width and was far too shallow for navigation.

Property rights on either side of the entire distance of the three miles were purchased by Mr. Ford for sufficient distance to permit a width of 300 feet and these were dedicated to the government under the direction of which all dredging operations have been carried out.

By 1918 work had progressed sufficiently to permit the launching of the Eagle boats during the war and re the stream is finally opened to navigation by lake freighters. The River Rouge now has a 300 foot surface breadth, a 200-foot bottom with an average depth of 22 feet, which will accommodate the largest of lake steamers, none of which have a greater draft than 19 feet, 6 inches, the limit permitted by the government.

Only a little more dredging is to be done and this will be finished by the government, it is expected, by August 1st. Completion of the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton bridge will come within a month at which time, it is expected, the government will accept it and the river will be officially opened. In the meantime, however, traffic will proceed.

The Ford Motor Company has completed a docking slip 2,614 feet long and 250 feet wide and in addition has constructed a giant turning basin approximately 1,200 by 1,200 feet which when fully completed, will be turned over to the government for acceptance.

The completion of the River Rouge project with its short cut canal gives to the City of Detroit six miles of new water front.—(Adv.)

Progress Editorial For Women

A HARD BEGINNING
By FLODENCI DAVIES

Sometimes it looks as if the human race was positively stubborn in its inconsistency. Shakespere knew what he was talking about when he hailed consistency as a rare jewel.

Mary Pickford, writing about her early life, proves that she is no exception.

Life wasn't easy in the early days for the Pickford family. On one memorable occasion it took all of the family's combined savings to buy a trunk. Even the luxury of a school room education was denied to Mary with the exception of a few scattered terms in Canada. Box car figures and letters and sign boards glimpsed from the train window furnished her primer.

And yet this is what she says about it all:—

"When young girls who want to go into the pictures or on the stage come to me for advice, I always urge education, as it is not a heavy burden to carry, but I am glad that I was self-taught. I'd hate to see my little niece, or anyone I was close to, go through the same thing, but I am rather happy now that my early years were not easy. Without the struggle of that time I am certain that I could not today, at my age run the picture company that I do. I would be less tolerant and have less understanding and sympathy."

Mary wouldn't be without that early struggle, if she could. She admits that she wouldn't be as big a woman as she is today, if she hadn't had it. But she wouldn't want her niece to go through that kind of a fight. No sirree! She would want to give her niece or any one close to her, every soft, lovely thing that life afforded—and then expect her to make good anyhow.

Isn't that just about as consistent as every mother and father in the land?

"I had a hard time when I was a boy. That hard time was the making of me. But I wouldn't want my boy or girl to have as hard a time as I had." That's what the fathers say.

Yet, no father would carry that statement to its logical conclusion—that he didn't want that boy or girl to make as much of a success of life as he had made. On the contrary, every parent wants his child to succeed just a little better than he has succeeded.

Life today is softer than it used to be. Are we, then, to set about it to make conditions hard on purpose? Must we make a boy, whose mother cooks with gas, chop wood, just for the sake of chopping it, or a girl walk three miles to school just because her mother had to do it?

Nonsense! That would be artificial Life is hard enough without thinking up hardships for children or grown-ups. All that we need is a willingness to let some of the youngsters do a little real work and carry some actual responsibilities.

We don't have to recreate the old conditions or manufacture hardships to do that. There is plenty of responsibility about modern life, but we want our young folks to have a better time than we did so we don't let them find it out.

LESSON FOR JULY 29

MATTHEW, THE PUBLICAN

LESSON TEXT — Matthew 9:9-13; Luke 5:27-32.

GOLDEN TEXT—"I came not to call the righteous but sinners to repentance."—Matthew 5:32.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—Mark 3: 13-32

PRIMARY TOPIC—Matthew Invites Jesus to His Home.

JUNIOR TOPIC—What Jesus Did for Matthew.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Matthew Overcomes a Handicap.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Matthew, a Study of Conversion.

I. Who Matthew Was.

Of Matthew little is known, even his birth place is concealed. Our first sight of him is seated at the toll booth collecting taxes. The tax gatherer was hated by the loyal Jews because he collected taxes for the alien government under whose yoke they were galling. This hate was the more bitter because of the extortion usually practiced by those in rule. From the meager accounts we find that Matthew was:

1. A Man of Decision. We do not know whether he had ever seen or heard of Jesus before this time, but we note that he at once arose and followed Jesus. Without doubt, there were many things to concern him. It was no little task to break off from his business which apparently was very lucrative.

2. He Was a Humble Man. In chapter 10, verse 3, the order in which he gives his own name and the fact that he designates himself a "publican" would show that he did not overestimate himself.

3. He Possessed Force of Character. This is shown in the fact that he gave a feast and invited his friends in to see and hear his Lord.

He had two names, Levi, which means "attached" or "joined," and Matthew, which means "gift of Jehovah." Most likely Matthew was the name assumed after his conversion.

II. Matthew's Call or Conversion (Matth. 9:9).

1. As Jesus Passed By, He "Saw a Man." He saw the possibilities which were in Matthew. He saw through the hated profession of a tax gatherer the shining possibilities of his manhood and apostleship. He saw in him the man fit to perceive and portray the Messiahship of the Redeemer. The divine grace was revealed in this call. Jesus sees what is in man regardless of name or profession.

2. Matthew's Response (v. 9). He acted with decision and promptness; he left his business behind him. When Jesus said, "Follow Me," Matthew perceived that greater than man had spoken to him. May we yield ourselves unto Him and render such simple obedience that our actions may be but the echoes of the divine voice in commanding. Two things in Matthew's compliance prove the genuineness of his conversion:

1. "He Left All" (Luke 5:28). Real conversion always results in the forsaking of all that is contrary to Jesus, such as illegitimate business, wicked associates and worldly pleasures, etc.

2. "Followed Jesus." Following Jesus means the commitment of one's life to Him for full salvation, abandonment of the will to Him to do whatsoever He wills, and a willingness to suffer, and even die, if need be, for Him.

III. Matthew Made a Great Feast (Luke 5:29-32). This feast was made in honor of his newly-found Savior. His conversion was so real that he wanted his friends to become acquainted with his Savior. He was not ashamed to confess his Lord before them. He showed real tact in making a supper. Men will come to a feast much more readily than they will to a sermon. A great company of sinners came, who doubtless had been Matthew's companions in sin. He now desired them to become his brothers in Christ. The Scribes and Pharisees were astonished that Jesus would appear in company with such a motley crowd of disreputable persons. They were too cowardly to speak to Jesus but they came to the disciples. Jesus championed their cause and battled His adversaries. His reasoning was unanswerable. A physician's place is among the sick. Only those who are diseased should come to the doctor's house. Since spiritual matters are of more importance than physical, Jesus was more than justified in being in the center of those who were morally sick that He might heal them of their maladies. He came to call sinners to repentance.

Our Conscience.

If conscience smite thee once it is an admonition; if twice, it is a condemnation. Repose is as necessary in conversation as in a picture.—Hazlitt.

Intelligence and Charity.

The brightest blaze of intelligence is of incalculably less value than the smallest spark of charity.—W. Nevins.

The Ground of Joy.

We can do nothing well without joy, and a good conscience which is the ground of joy.—Sibbes.

Opportunity a Sycophant.

Opportunity is like everything else, always ready to call on a man who is already successful.—Lond. Answers.

Curwensville's Own Column

Miss Frances Schoor leaves today for an extended visit to several pleasure resorts in Canada. Miss Schoor will return to Braddock again this winter and teach her third term of school in that growing young city.

The bankrupt sale stock of William Hile was disposed of to the highest bidders yesterday afternoon.

New concrete walls are being erected over at the Penna. Hide and Leather companys plant, the building to replace the old hide house which was burned to the ground several months ago.

Harry Leathers ,one of the roller men at Summit tannery had thumb on the left hand caught under a roller yesterday morning crushing the end of that member almost to a pulp.

J. M. McKinley, general superintendent of the Crescent Refractories brick plant went to Buffalo Thursday evening on business connected with his position.

Jack Irvin purchased several acres of ground some weeks ago from Harry Riddle and is now putting up a comfortable bungalow on the same. The purchase lies near the Thos. Humphreys farm and a short distance from the Bloom bridge.

Chas. Edwards of Buffalo, spent a portion of the week in Curwensville, visiting with his brother, E. A. Edwards, South Filbert street.

Today E. R. Edwards and wife and Edward Henry and wife start on a motor trip to Wilkesbarre and other points along the route traveled. That city is the home town of Mr. Edwards.

Chas. Schrote who has been located in Detroit, Mich., for some months back is home on a vacation visit with his parents.

A sort of a surprise party was held at the home of Mrs. Robert McClure yesterday afternoon. A number of neighbors and friends assembled to congratulate her on the passing of another birthday anniversary.

We have been requestqed to have published in the Curwensville letter the names of those who participated in the party held out at the "Seldom-In" club house on Thursday evening: Bessie Clark, Helen Kephart, Elizabeth King, Alice Wall, Jessie Pifer, Roberta McDonald, Mary Alice Thompson, John Bowers, Jake and Leonard Kantar, Robert Wolf, Chas. Whether your taste turns to fiction—it may be of the great outdoors or the most sensational of society stories—or whether your taste is for the heavier reading along technical lines, you will find that we have a book here that will make your Sunday pass very pleasantly.

We have most of the new copyright releases—books that sold for much higher prices when the copyright was on—selling at a fraction of their former prices.

There are many books on technical subjects which of course sell for a slightly higher price but they are works of the best men in the various lines and are well worth the time to read them for the man or woman who is interested in some special profession.

Persistent Bees.

For 20 years a swarm of bees have occupied the back of the school clock at Michelclever, England, and no attempt at removing them has been successful, states a resident of that town. The swarm had been thought destroyed some years ago and the entrance the bees had made was cemented up, but each year they have returned, and they even bored a new hole through the cement.

POLITICAL PARAGRAPHS

These manouvers between the State Treasurer and the administration have nothing to do directly with the dismissals of ate employes that are now going on, though, of course, they e all part of the same condition.

The dismissals are being made partly to accommodate cerin bureaus and departments to reduced appropriations made the last legislative session and partly as a voluntary move the part of the Pinchot administration by way of redeeming e Governor's ante-election pledge of economy in government.

A batch of 113 dismissals was announced at Harrisburg Wednesday of this week. These had come from Milford, here the Governor is working with Dr. King on his scheme re-organization. They are by no means the first dismissals at have been made, nor are they likely to be the last.

They will, of course, constitute another sore spot in the ate government, a new issue between Mr. Pinchot and the olitical organizations. He is quite aware of that and quite illing to carry the burden.

It is too early yet to have any opinion about them. Friend the dismissed employes will say in many instances, of course at the dismissals were unjustified. At the same time ther ill be no question of public opinion favoring the Governor', ove if it can be demonstrated there was a superfluity of em oyes entailing unnecessary expense upon the state.

Particularly will this be so if it can also be demonstrate at the dismissals were regulated solely on the basis of ef iency and that political preferment was not involved, in othe ords that it was not done on a basis of rewarding friend id punishing enemies.

Another point to be kept in mind is that, contrary to ge ally accepted belief, the salaries paid to state employes whe ything approximating proper conditions prevails is not ajor expense of state government. Compared to other thing it might be still to be almost negligible. However, whether that is true or not, the undoubted fact is that this is a bad season of the year in which to be a state employe. However, those dismissed may have the consolation of knowing that in nine cases out of ten it will lead to them getting into private business and making something out of themselves. They may not see that right now but they will later.

His Definition.

"Why are they called pyramids, pa?" asked George, who was looking at a picture of those wonders of Egypt. "They are called pyramids, my son," replied the father, without hesitation, "because, you see, they appear until the general desolation of the desert."

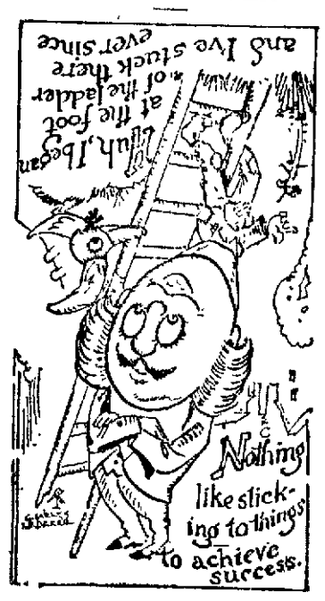
TURN ME OVER



The Century Plant.

The report that a century plant blooms only once in a hundred years is probably due to the impatience of some of its admirers. In some parts of South America where it grows wild it blooms once in eight years, but when it has been transplanted into green houses under artificial conditions its blooming date is much prolonged.

Birds in the Night.

The voices of nocturnal creatures include the hoot of owls, the cry of the whippoorwill, the quack of the wild duck, the quill-quack of the heron, the bark of the fox, the squeak of the bat, the hoot of the screech owl, the whistle of the quail, the crow of the rooster, the cackle of the hen, the caw of the crow, the croak of the frog, the bellow of the bull, the neigh of the horse, the bray of the donkey, the howl of the dog, the roar of the lion, the growl of the bear, the whine of the wolf, the yelp of the coyote, the chirp of the cricket, the song of the nightingale

BETTER KIDDIES WHEN FED OUR MILK

Any kiddy that is being fed our milk regularly, is a better kiddy mentally and physically. The undernourished child, even tho given what looks to be the food for him or her, is peevish and fretful. Possibly it is not getting the proper nourishment—the kind it would be getting if our milk were the main article of diet.

When the kiddies get our milk they are getting all the goodness that Nature put into the milk and there is usually a marked change for the better right away.

Let the kiddies have plenty of our milk and they will thrive.

Watch Your Battery!

These are the days when it pays to be especially watchful not to forget your battery.

To let the water run low is to invite danger of a badly damaged or ruined battery.

Watch your battery carefully. It will mean a real saving for you.
